Evolutionary Biology and Ecology of Ostracoda David J. Horne, Koen Martens, 2013-11-11 Ostracoda Crustacea are potentially excellent model organisms for evolutionary studies because they combine an extensive fossil record with a wide recent distribution and therefore allow studies on both patterns and processes leading to extant diversity The main scientific domains contributing theories concepts and data to evolutionary biology are morphology including ontogeny palaeontology genetics and ecology and to all of these aspects ostracods can contribute This is clearly illustrated by the fifteen papers presented under Theme 3 of the 13th International Symposium on Ostracoda Chatham UK in 1997 which are grouped in the present proceedings one of three volumes resulting from this meeting The contributions deal with the evolution of both extant and fossil forms including most of the Phanerozoic ecology of both marine and freshwater taxa and developmental morphology of both soft parts and valves Although the canvas is wide each paper clearly shows how studies on Ostracoda can be relevant to general theory on evolutionary biology and ecology Descartes and the Ontology of Everyday Life Deborah J. Brown, Calvin G. Normore, 2019-10-30 The seventeenth century was a period of extraordinary invention discovery and revolutions in scientific social and political orders It was a time of expansive automation biological discovery rapid advances in medical knowledge of animal trials and a questioning of the boundaries between species human and non human between social classes and of the assumed naturalness of political inequality This book gives a tour through those objects ordinary and extraordinary which captivated the philosophical imagination of the single most important French philosopher of this period Ren Descartes Deborah J Brown and Calvin G Normore document Descartes attempt to make sense of the complex composite objects of human and divine invention consistent with the fundamental tenets of his metaphysical system Their central argument is that far from reducing all the categories of ordinary experience to the two basic categories of substance mind and body Descartes philosophy recognises irreducible composites that resist reduction and require their own distinctive modes of explanation Opportunities and Challenges for Environmental Sustainability: A Socioeconomic and Political Analysis Fritz Dufour, 2019-05-26 This report is a socioeconomic and political analysis of environmental sustainability in terms of the present state of the environment what we can do to reverse the negative trends and what the current and potential barriers are First it offers a background of the issue through a historical perspective How we got here has a lot to do with how previous generations behaved towards the environment Similarly how we behave will determine the kind of environment future generations will have to contend with It looks at the dynamics likely to impact the balance of nature Also because understanding what is biodiversity and why is it important are essential in order to grasp the concept of sustainability this report looks at the types of ecosystems that form the biosphere and brings an answer to this important question Is the Maximum sustainable yield MSY concept a fallacy Moreover the importance of cities is a key factor in environmental sustainability So the report shows the pros and cons of cities in both the preservation of the environment and the conservation of its biodiversity The social economic and political analyses use the latest data and views from experts scientists and scholars alike and also the views of the common people The result is that all three levels have positives and negatives and so none of them should be individually prioritized over the other two To tackle this dilemma the report offers an alternative an inclusive pluralistic and global approach which aims at motivating all stakeholders from rich and poor countries and people from all walks of life to work together towards a common goal and common interests Such an approach says the report should be bottom up instead of top down that is the needs of local populations especially those closer to biodiversity must come first before those of large corporations However while in the present and short terms this approach may be successful in the long term or a distant future there are reasons to be skeptical for the environment is constantly changing and generations are different from one another And that is very important because what constitutes the cornerstone of environmental sustainability is this the present use of natural resources should not be harmful to future generations Therefore the report looks into the future While acknowledging that in terms of environmental sustainability predicting the future is a daunting task because it is better to think that the future is now the report shows how we can prepare a soft landing for our great grand children by laying the groundwork for them We can accomplish this last task because we still have time
