

Accounting

There is a full year of amortization on the copyright. There is no amortization for the trade name, which is considered an indefinite-life intangible.

$$\text{Amortization expense} = $15,000/10 = $1,500$$

Amortization Expense	1,500
Copyrights		1,500

The recoverability test for the copyright indicates that the copyright is not impaired: The expected cash flows (undiscounted) of $20,000 are greater than the carrying value of $13,500 ($15,000 – $1,500). The trade name is tested for impairment using a fair value test. Thus, Raconteur writes it down to the fair value of $5,000, recording an impairment charge of $8,500 – $5,000 = $3,500.

Lost on Impairment	3,500
Trade Names		3,500

Analysis

Impairment losses are recorded in operating income. Because impairments tend to be nonrecurring items, their recognition can make operating income more volatile from year to year. This volatility effect can be particularly severe for indefinite-life intangibles, such as a trade name or goodwill. The higher carrying values (due to no amortization), combined with the annual fair-value impairment test, can result in impairment losses having a significant impact on operating income.

Principles

The accounting for impairments provides relevant information about intangible assets by indicating in a timely fashion that intangible assets have declined in value. However, providing this timely information requires significant subjective judgments related to estimating (1) expected cash flows for the cash flow recovery test and (2) fair values in determining the amount of the impairment to be recognized. These estimates may raise concerns about the faithful representation of impairment-loss amounts.
