

Expository Writing

Have you ever written interesting facts about a person, place, or thing? Your factual account was an example of expository writing. Expository writing presents readers with important research and information about a topic.

Expository writing gives facts and information about a topic.

Good expository writing:

- introduces the main idea and develops it with facts and supporting details.
- gives important information about a specific topic.
- summarizes research from a variety of sources.
- uses transition words to connect ideas.
- draws a conclusion based on the facts and information presented.

A Variety of Sources

To present the most accurate and complete information about your topic, it is important to summarize facts and details from a variety of sources.

• Transition Words

To help your readers clearly understand important information, you need to use transition words that connect the events and ideas in your writing. Words such as at times, after, and however help you connect ideas. (Use your writing toolbox for its whole page of transitional words)
