Mapping the Labyrinth Stephen Murray, 2014-11-25 Delving into the heartland of rural Australia uncovering secrets of the communal mind resting at waypoints of oblique eccentric observation Love madness social engineering feline companionship mechanics of voice hearing and dissociative identity disorder all these and more challenging subjects mapped as the labyrinth of existence is traversed with bold enthusiasm by a veteran explorer Walking and Mapping Karen O'Rourke, 2016-02-12 An exploration of walking and mapping as both form and content in art projects using old and new technologies shoe leather and GPS From Guy Debord in the early 1950s to Richard Long Janet Cardiff and Esther Polak more recently contemporary artists have returned again and again to the walking motif Today the convergence of global networks online databases and new tools for mobile mapping coincides with a resurgence of interest in walking as an art form In Walking and Mapping Karen O'Rourke explores a series of walking mapping projects by contemporary artists She offers close readings of these projects many of which she was able to experience firsthand and situates them in relation to landmark works from the past half century Together they form a new entity a dynamic whole greater than the sum of its parts By alternating close study of selected projects with a broader view of their place in a bigger picture Walking and Mapping itself maps a complex phenomenon The Role of the EU in Transnational Legal Ordering Marta Cantero Gamito, Hans-W. These essays are meant to be albeit in their critical mode the recountings of knowing something through something else they are the projected imagination through reading of the reading by the self and or others a wide range of each of a city or cities as such of what city knowing or city thinking is The city as stage market and labyrinth variously trafficked and aestheticized dreamt and politicized as passionately written by authors from Cicero to Kazin from Wordsworth Dickens Whitman and Woolf to Williams Ashbery and Bonnefoy is the place the essays play themselves out through architecture and metaphor
