Rhetorics of Religion in American Fiction Liliana M. Naydan,2016-05-23 Rhetorics of Religion in American Fiction considers the way in which contemporary American authors address the subject of belief in the post 9 11 Age of Terror Naydan suggests that after 9 11 fiction by Mohsin Hamid Laila Halaby Philip Roth Don DeLillo John Updike and Barbara Kingsolver dramatizes and works to resolve impassés that exist between believers of different kinds at the extremes These impassés emerge out of the religious paradox that shapes America as simultaneously theocratic and secular and they exist for instance between liberals and fundamentalists between liberals and certain evangelicals between fundamentalists and artists and between fundamentalists of different varieties Ultimately Naydan argues that these authors function as literary theologians of sorts and forge a relevant space beyond or between extremes They fashion faith or lack thereof as hybridized and hence as a negotiation among secularism atheism faith fundamentalism and fanaticism In so doing they invite their readers into contemplations of religious difference and new ways of memorializing 9 11

Fixed Identities in a Changing World? Mobility as a Catalyst for Eco-Heroism Felina Lehmann,2019-12-13 Academic Paper from the year 2019 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works grade 1 3 University of Bamberg language English abstract In my paper I want to investigate the connection between mobility and ecoheroism because I want to find out whether mental and physical mobility can be seen as a catalyst for starting an eco journey I want to show that Barbara Kingsolver s protagonist Dellarobia is an eco heroine driven by her mental and physical mobility throughout the book which is started by an environmental abnormality the appearance of Monarch Butterflies I examine the realities of climate change as they are presented in Flight Behavior and how Dellarobia s starting recognition that climate change exists corresponds with her understanding of natural processes and unfair power dynamics Dellarobia frees herself from the dualistic culture and the restrictions of motherhood because she is realizing the truths and effects of climate change and want to create a better future for others her kids Her personal growth as an independent woman comes through her transformation into an environmentally aware individual My investigation is supposed to help readers understand the importance of mobility for eco heroism not only as a catalyst for Dellarobia becoming an eco heroine but I would argue that recognizing the protagonist s development in Flight Behaviour sic as a reader helps to overcome denial of climate change activates concern and creates awareness

Arboretum Magazine ,2014-10 Monatshefte ,2019 Talking Book Topics ,2013 Prodigal Summer Barbara Kingsolver,2009-10-13 Prodigal Summer weaves together three stories of human love within a larger tapestry of lives inhabiting the forested mountains and struggling small farms of southern Appalachia Deanna Wolfe a reclusive wildlife biologist watches a den of coyotes that have recently migrated into the region She is caught off guard by a young hunter who invades her most private spaces and confounds her self-assured solitary life. Lusa Maluf Landowski, a bookish city girl turned farmer's wife, finds herself unexpectedly marooned in a strange place where she must declare or lose her attachment to the land that has become her own. A pair of elderly feuding neighbors tend their respective farms and wrangle about God, pesticides, and the possibilities of a future neither of them expected. Over the course of one humid summer as the urge to procreate overtakes the countryside, these characters find their connections to one another and to the flora and fauna with whom they share a place. Kingsolver, 2014 De vondst van een grote kolonie vlinders zet het leven van een ontevreden boerin in Tennessee op zijn kop Book Club Set Barbara Kingsolver, 2013 Dellarobia Turnbow is a discontent farmwife engaging in a flirtatious relationship with a younger man when she discovers an unusual fire in a forested valley behind her house. This curiosity causes a stir in the scientific and local communities, garnering a great deal of media attention and leading to Dellarobia confronting and questioning everything she thought she believed in. Unsheltered Barbara Kingsolver, 2018-10-16 The New York Times bestselling author of Flight Behavior, The Lacuna, and The Poisonwood Bible and recipient of numerous literary awards, including the National Humanities Medal, the Dayton Literary Peace Prize, and the Orange Prize, returns with a timely novel that interweaves past and present to explore the human capacity for resiliency and compassion in times of great upheaval. Willa Knox has always prided herself on being the embodiment of responsibility for her family. Which is why it's so unnerving that she's arrived at middle age with nothing to show for her hard work and dedication but a stack of unpaid bills and an inherited brick home in Vineland, New Jersey, that is literally falling apart. The magazine where she worked has folded, and the college where her husband had tenure has closed. The dilapidated house is also home to her ailing and cantankerous Greek father-in-law and her two grown children: her stubborn, free-spirited daughter Tig and her dutiful, debt-ridden, ivy-educated son Zeke, who has arrived with his unplanned baby in the wake of a life-shattering development. In an act of desperation, Willa begins to investigate the history of her home, hoping that the local historical preservation society might take an interest and provide funding for its direly needed repairs. Through her research into Vineland's past and its creation as a Utopian community, she discovers a kindred spirit from the 1880s: Thatcher Greenwood, a science teacher with a lifelong passion for honest investigation. Thatcher finds himself under siege in his community for telling the truth; his employer forbids him to speak of the exciting new theory recently published by Charles Darwin. Thatcher's friendships with a brilliant woman scientist and a renegade newspaper editor draw him into a vendetta with the town's most powerful men. At home, his new wife and status-conscious mother-in-law bristle at the risk of scandal and dismiss his financial worries, and the news that their elegant house is structurally unsound. Brilliantly executed and compulsively readable, Unsheltered is the story of two families in two centuries who live at the corner of Sixth and Plum as they navigate the challenges of surviving a world in the throes of major cultural shifts. In this mesmerizing story told in alternating chapters, Willa and Thatcher come to realize that though the future is uncertain even unnerving shelter can be found in the bonds of kindred whether family or friends and in the strength of the human spirit
