Artificial Neural Nets and Genetic Algorithms David W. Pearson, Nigel C. Steele, Rudolf F. Albrecht, 2012-12-06

Artificial neural networks and genetic algorithms both are areas of research which have their origins in mathematical models constructed in order to gain understanding of important natural processes By focussing on the process models rather than the processes themselves significant new computational techniques have evolved which have found application in a large number of diverse fields This diversity is reflected in the topics which are subjects of the contributions to this volume There are contributions reporting successful applications of the technology to the solution of industrial commercial problems This may well reflect the maturity of the technology notably in the sense that real users of modelling prediction techniques are prepared to accept neural networks as a valid paradigm Theoretical issues also receive attention notably in connection with the radial basis function neural network Contributions in the field of genetic algorithms reflect the wide range of current applications including for example portfolio selection filter design frequency assignment tuning of nonlinear PID controllers These techniques are also used extensively for combinatorial optimisation problems Advances in Heat Transfer, 1998-06-09 Advances in Heat Transfer is designed to fill the information gap between regularly scheduled journals and university level textbooks by providing in depth review articles over a broader scope than is allowable in either journals or texts Practical Statistics by Example Using Microsoft Excel Terry Sincich, David M. Levine, David Stephan, 1999 This manual includes an Excel primer providing basic instructions on using Windows and Excel Excel Tutorials appear at the end of pertinent chapters Self test questions key terms formulas and symbols are included Bulletin - Institute of Mathematical Statistics Institute of Mathematical Statistics, 1996 Air Force Journal of Logistics, 2008
