Project Management Bootcamp Peter Cross, 2023-07-31 Project Management Bootcamp is a pragmatic guide for those who need to understand how to deliver projects successfully. The reader journeys through a project stage by stage discovering what project managers commonly need to achieve at each step. Each step is supported by tables, charts, tips and tools which readers may adopt or adapt to their needs and different ways of organising and delivering projects including agile approaches are considered. Because theory can only get you so far, a key element of the book is learning from real projects drawing on the experience of project managers working across three continents. Each chapter ends with challenges to readers to reflect on their learning which can be based on a theoretical case study or their own project. The result is a reflective framework that charts their learning and their project management journey from initiation to closure. Project Management Bootcamp is essential reading for junior and mid-level career project managers as well as any professionals who finds themselves in charge of a project and are unsure how to get the best result. Students in business and management courses at undergraduate and postgraduate levels will also value its setting of theory into a practical context.

Digital Dictionary Marie Cauli, Laurence Favier, Jean-Yves Jeannas, 2022-09-21 Digital age, digital society, digital civilization. Many expressions are used to describe the major cultural transformation of our contemporary societies. Digital Dictionary presents the multiple facets of this phenomenon which was born of computers and continues to permeate all human activity as it progresses at a rapid pace. In this multidisciplinary work, experts, academics and practitioners invite us to discover the digital world from various technological and societal perspectives. In this book, citizens, trainers, political leaders or association members, students and users will find a base of knowledge that will allow them to update their understanding and become stakeholders in current societal changes.

Technocolonialism Mirca Madianou, 2024-10-16 With over 300 million people in need of humanitarian assistance and with emergencies and climate disasters becoming more common, AI and big data are being championed as forces for good and as solutions to the complex challenges of the aid sector. This book argues, however, that digital innovation engenders new forms of violence and entrenches power asymmetries between the global South and North. Madianou develops a new concept, technocolonialism, to capture how the convergence of digital developments with humanitarian structures, state power and market forces reinvigorates and reshapes colonial legacies. The concept of technocolonialism shifts the attention to the constitutive role that digital infrastructures, data and AI play in accentuating inequities between aid providers and people in need. Drawing on ten years of research on the uses of digital technologies in humanitarian operations, the book examines a range of practices from the normalization of biometric technologies and the datafication of humanitarian operations to experimentation in refugee camps which are treated as laboratories for technological pilots. In so doing, the book opens new ground in the fields of humanitarianism and critical AI studies and in the debates in postcolonial studies by highlighting the fundamental role of digital technologies in reworking colonial genealogies.

Meeting the Inclusion Challenge in Innovation Tatiana Iakovleva, Elin M. Oftedal, John Bessant, 2024-11-18 User inclusion in innovation is increasingly the target of policy rhetoric at both organizational and societal levels And extensive research has demonstrated the potential contribution that users can make both at the front end of innovation with their ideas and insights and downstream facilitating adoption and diffusion However translating this potential into practice remains problematic not least because we need to understand more about how to hear user voices amplify their insights and provide practical channels for inclusion to ensure full co creation of innovation Our earlier book from 2019 Responsible Innovation in Digital Health Edward Elgar added to the growing body of knowledge around whether users can be involved and this book opens up the how theme Our work suggested a spectrum of user involvement ranging from those who can participate fully to those who are passive players in the innovation process and we explore in this book different tools techniques and mechanisms for enabling such users to become more involved in the innovation process We look at the concept of boundary innovation spaces as environments in which co creation can be enabled drawing on experience across a wide international research network We also explore the broader innovation environment the specific networks of actors and their interactions which define the innovation ecosystem where user inclusion may be embedded This book moves the discussion beyond the question of whether users can be more effectively included throughout the innovation process to explore the ways in which this might be enabled
