Global Trends In Retail Trade:

Global Trends in Retail Trade Ishak Mešić, Me I, 2014-10-15 This study aims to investigate and present the intensity of global trends in the retail trade focusing on countries that generate most of the retail turnover in the world The study shows that almost all countries participate in trend dislocation of traditional retail towards modern sale forms The trend of retail trade outside the store via the internet is significantly more intense in Europe and in the USA than on the global average level The share of internet sales as a proportion of total retail trade has increased steadily and this trend is expected to continue in the future Private label trends worldwide to continue to show impressive growth across both food and non food retail trade Trend of the concentration in different countries is much different The concentration in the retail trade is much higher in the developed countries of the EU than in the other countries The leading European retailers have achieved a higher degree of internationalization of retailers from other regions Top 10 European food retailers have realized 41.6% of sales abroad With the internalization trend retail has become a global industry

Retailing in the 21st Century Manfred Krafft, Murali K. Mantrala, 2009-12-17 Retailing in the new millennium stands as an exciting complex and critical sector of business in most developed as well as emerging economies Today the retailing industry is being buffeted by a number of forces simultaneously e.g. increasing competition within and across retailing formats the growth of online retailing the advent of radio frequency identification RFID technology the explosion in customer level data availability the global expansion of major retail chains like Wal Mart and METRO Group and so on Making sense of it all is not easy but of vital importance to retailing practitioners analysts and policymakers With crisp and insightful contributions from some of the world's leading experts Retailing in the 21st Century is a compendium of state of the art cutting edge knowledge for successful retailing today

WTO, India, and Emerging Areas of Trade P. Rameshan, 2008 This book is recommended for those readers and students who are keen on getting a deeper understanding on the strategic issues facing the different sectors of the Indian economy and business in the aftermath of the emergence of the WTO system and the new global economic and business order that the WTO agreements have brought about The book will raise your strategic anxieties on India to such a great height that after reading it you will certainly be inspired to think seriously about possible ways of enabling the Indian economy and business to achieve a more rapid global ascendance All discussions in the book are in the context of the WTO agreements While discussing India's past trade performance and future potentials the book makes extensive references to the US European Union and China the three most powerful economies of the contemporary world There are several instances in the book where Indian achievements are benchmarked against China's Besides the book explores the direction of India's trade future with respect to the ASEAN The book also focuses on such burning topics as Indian companies in the global markets India's trade gains in textiles and clothing intellectual property protection to traditional knowledge food security issues under a free trade regime India's international trade in agricultural products India's business in business process outsourcing and the trade potentials in higher education Further there are interesting discussions in the book on the trade or investment issues of automobile pharmaceutical FMCG retailing livestock plantation and tourism sectors In each case the book has made due focus of its attention on the required strategic recourse for India In a nutshell the book is an essential reading for anyone who longs to see India reemerging as the dominant force in the global economy
