Evolution Education Around the Globe Hasan Deniz, Lisa A. Borgerding, 2018-06-21 This edited book provides a global view on evolution education. It describes the state of evolution education in different countries that are representative of geographical regions around the globe such as Eastern Europe, Western Europe, North Africa, South Africa, North America, South America, Middle East, Far East, South East Asia, Australia, and New Zealand. Studies in evolution education literature can be divided into three main categories: a) understanding the interrelationships among cognitive, affective, epistemological, and religious factors that are related to people's views about evolution; b) designing/implementing/evaluating evolution education curriculum that reflects contemporary evolution understanding; and c) reducing antievolutionary attitudes. This volume systematically summarizes the evolution education literature across these three categories for each country or geographical region. The individual chapters thus include common elements that facilitate a cross-cultural meta-analysis. Written for a primarily academic audience, this book provides a much-needed common background for future evolution education research across the globe.

Literature and the Work of Universality Alice Duhan, Stefan Helgesson, Christina Kullberg, Paul Tenngart, 2024-07-22

In an age of accelerating ecological crises global inequalities and democratic fragility it has become crucial to achieve renewed articulations of human commonality With anchorage in critical theory as well as world literary studies this volume approaches literature and modes of literary thinking as a key resource for such a task Universality is understood here not as an established universalism but as a horizon towards which intellectual inquiry and literary practices orient themselves In the field of world literature there is by now a wide repertoire of epistemological resources through which claims to universality can be both questioned and reconfigured If at one end of the spectrum world literature confronts us with the spectre of homogenisation and the commodification of difference under a regime of global capitalism at another end renewed forms of philological anthropological and ecological attentiveness to the particulars of languages and texts within the crucible of connected histories allow for defamiliarising perspectives both on received historical narratives and aesthetic practices Vernacularity emerges here as a central point of reference for constructing the universal from within the particular the idiomatic and the experiences of social subordination or complicity

Big Bang or Big Bluff Hans Binder,

Educational Technology and Pedagogic Encounters Yusef Waghid, 2016-07-15

This book looks at some of the underlying theories of educational technology means and ways in which this technology is guided in practice ends The authors are intent on producing ends that prepare students to undertake new analyses and evaluations that can result in new possibilities for democratic action Emphasis is on their understanding of and position within educational technology as opposed to using or applying educational technology The work is not written from the point of view that their embeddedness within educational technology has a utilitarian end in mind but rather that their situatedness within educational technology a practice in itself leaves open possibilities for new ways of understanding democratic education This book is organised into six interrelated themes that work towards the cultivation of educational technology as a human practice which guides pedagogic encounters on the basis of taking risks in relation to which the unexpected unimaginable is always possible

The Evolution of the Human Head

Daniel E. Lieberman, 2011-05-03 In one sense human heads function much like those of other mammals We use them to chew smell swallow think hear and so on But in other respects the human head is quite unusual Unlike other animals even our great ape cousins our heads are short and wide very big brained snoutless largely furless and perched on a short nearly vertical neck Daniel E Lieberman sets out to explain how the human head works and why our heads evolved in this peculiarly human way Exhaustively researched and years in the making this innovative book documents how the many components of the head function how they evolved since we diverged from the apes and how they interact in diverse ways both functionally and developmentally causing them to be highly integrated This integration not only permits the head s many units to accommodate each other as they grow and work but also facilitates evolutionary change Lieberman shows how when and why the major transformations evident in the evolution of the human head occurred The special way the head is integrated Lieberman argues made it possible for a few developmental shifts to have had widespread effects on craniofacial growth yet still permit the head to function exquisitely This is the first book to explore in depth what happened in human evolution by integrating principles of development and functional morphology with the hominin fossil record The Evolution of the Human Head will permanently change the study of human evolution and has widespread ramifications for thinking about other branches of evolutionary biology
