Grand Lodge of Connecticut,1907 Ideas, Evidence, and Method Graciela Teresa De Pierris,2015 Graciela De Pierris presents a novel interpretation of the relationship between skepticism and naturalism in Hume s epistemology and a new appraisal of Hume s place within early modern thought Whereas a dominant trend in recent Hume scholarship maintains that there are no skeptical arguments concerning causation and induction in Book I Part III of the Treatise Graciela De Pierris presents a detailed reading of the skeptical argument she finds there and how this argument initiates a train of skeptical reasoning that begins in Part III and culminates in Part IV This reasoning is framed by Hume s version of the modern theory of ideas developed by Descartes and Locke The skeptical implications of this theory however do not arise as in traditional interpretations of Hume s skepticism from the veil of perception They arise from Hume s elaboration of a presentational phenomenological model of ultimate evidence according to which there is always a justificatory gap between what is or has been immediately presented to the mind and any ideas that go beyond it This happens paradigmatically in the causal inductive inference and as De Pierris argues in demonstrative inference as well Yet in spite of his firm commitment to radical skepticism Hume also accepts the naturalistic standpoint of science and common life and he does so on the novel interpretation presented here because of an equally firm commitment to Newtonian science in general and the Newtonian inductive method in particular Hume defends the Newtonian method against the mechanical philosophy while simultaneously rejecting all attempts including those of the Newtonians to find a place for the supernatural within our understanding of nature The American Journal of Semitic Languages and Literatures ,1913 Surpeme Court Kings County , S.C. ,1922 Consists of reports of various Select Committees each with a distinctive title The Law Reports Great Britain.
