Natural resources are materials found in nature that humans use. We use these resources for survival. They also make our lives easier. Water, food, electricity, furniture, and clothing all come from natural resources. Some of these resources are renewable and some are nonrenewable.

Renewable resources are ones that can easily be replaced, as long as we are careful. Some examples are trees and wind.

In the box, draw a picture of a natural resource you use daily.

What Is the Influence of the National Science Education Standards? National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Education, Committee on Science Education K-12, Steering Committee on Taking Stock of the National Science Education Standards: The Research, 2002-12-05 In 2001 with support from National Science Foundation the National Research Council began a review of the evidence concerning whether or not the National Science Education Standards have had an impact on the science education enterprise to date and if so what that impact has been This publication represents the second phase of a three phase effort by the National Research Council to answer that broad and very important question Phase I began in 1999 and was completed in 2001 with publication of Investigating the Influence of Standards A Framework for Research in Mathematics Science and Technology Education National Research Council 2002 That report provided organizing principles for the design conduct and interpretation of research regarding the influence of national standards The Framework developed in Phase I was used to structure the current review of research that is reported here Phase II began in mid 2001 involved a thorough search and review of the research literature on the influence of the NSES and concludes with this publication which summarizes the proceedings of a workshop conducted on May 10 2002 in Washington DC Phase III will provide input collected in 2002 from science educators administrators at all levels and other practitioners and policy makers regarding their views of the NSES the ways and extent to which the NSES are influencing their work and the systems that support science education and what next steps are needed American Educational Research Association Annual Meeting Program American Educational Research Association, 1994

Cultural Studies and Environmentalism Deborah J. Tippins, Michael P. Mueller, Michiel van Eijck, Jennifer D Adams, 2010-08-05 As the first book to explore the confluence of three emerging yet critical fields of study this work sets an exacting standard The editors aim was to produce the most authoritative guide for ecojustice place based education and indigenous knowledge in education Aimed at a wide audience that includes but is not restricted to science educators and policymakers Cultural Studies and Environmentalism starts from the premise that schooling is a small part of the larger educational domain in which we live and learn Informed by this overarching notion the book opens up ways in which home grown talents narratives and knowledge can be developed and eco region awareness and global relationships can be facilitated Incorporating a diversity of perspectives that include photography poetry and visual art the work provides a nuanced lens for evaluating educational problems and community conditions while protecting and conserving the most threatened and vulnerable narratives Editors and contributors share the view that the impending loss of these narratives should be discussed much more widely than is currently the case and that both teachers and children can take on some of the responsibility for their preservation The relevance of ecojustice to this process is clear Ecojustice philosophy is a way of learning about how we frame or perceive the world around us and why that matters Although it is not synonymous with social or environmental justice the priorities of ecojustice span the globe in the same way It incorporates a deep recognition of the appropriateness and significance of learning from place based experiences and indigenous knowledge systems rather than depending on some urgent ecological crises to advocate for school and societal change With a multiplicity of diverse voices coming together to explore its key themes this book is an important starting point for educators in many arenas It brings into better focus a vital role for the Earth's ecosystems in the context of ecosociocultural theory and participatory democracy alike Encompassing theoretical empirical and experiential standpoints concerning place based knowledge systems this unique book argues for a transformation of science education's intellectual tradition of thinking that emphasizes individual cognition In its place the book offers a wisdom tradition of thinking living and being that emphasizes community survival in harmony within itself and with Mother Earth Glen Aikenhead Prentice Hall Science Explorer: Teacher's ed ,2005
