Evidence-Based Practice for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Evidence-Based Practices for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response, 2020-10-28

When communities face complex public health emergencies state local tribal and territorial public health agencies must make difficult decisions regarding how to effectively respond The public health emergency preparedness and response PHEPR system with its multifaceted mission to prevent protect against quickly respond to and recover from public health emergencies is inherently complex and encompasses policies organizations and programs Since the events of September 11 2001 the United States has invested billions of dollars and immeasurable amounts of human capital to develop and enhance public health emergency preparedness and infrastructure to respond to a wide range of public health threats including infectious diseases natural disasters and chemical biological radiological and nuclear events Despite the investments in research and the growing body of empirical literature on a range of preparedness and response capabilities and functions there has been no national level comprehensive review and grading of evidence for public health emergency preparedness and response practices comparable to those utilized in medicine and other public health fields Evidence Based Practice for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response reviews the state of the evidence on PHEPR practices and the improvements necessary to move the field forward and to strengthen the PHEPR system This publication evaluates PHEPR evidence to understand the balance of benefits and harms of PHEPR practices with a focus on four main areas of PHEPR engagement with and training of community based partners to improve the outcomes of at risk populations after public health emergencies activation of a public health emergency operations center communication of public health alerts and guidance to technical audiences during a public health emergency and implementation of quarantine to reduce the spread of contagious illness Quality Instruction and Intervention for Elementary Educators Brittany L. Hott,Pamela

Williamson,2024-10-02 Written for elementary education teacher preparation programs this practical book offers a summary of quality general education instruction followed by the most up to date empirically validated and evidence based instruction and interventions for students with and at risk for disabilities What works in early reading materials Ana Robledo,Amber

Gove,2019-02-25 Access to books is key to learning to read and sustaining a love of reading Yet many low and middle income countries struggle to provide their students with reading materials of sufficient quality and quantity Since 2008 RTI

International has provided technical assistance in early reading assessment and instruction to ministries of education in dozens of low and middle income countries The central objective of many of these programs has been to improve learning outcomes in particular reading for students in the early grades of primary school Under these programs RTI has partnered with ministry staff to produce and distribute evidence based instructional materials at a regional or national scale in quantities that increase the likelihood that children will have ample opportunities to practice reading skills and at a cost that can be sustained in the long term by the education system In this paper we seek to capture the practices RTI has developed and refined over the last decade particularly in response to the challenges inherent in contexts with high linguistic diversity and low operational capacity for producing and distributing instructional materials These practices constitute our approach to developing and producing instructional materials for early grade literacy We also touch upon effective planning for printing and distribution procurement but we do not consider the printing and distribution processes in depth in this paper

We expect this volume will be useful for donors policymakers and practitioners interested in improving access to cost effective high quality teaching and learning materials for the early grades Proceedings of the 5th International Asia
