Joan Holt, 2017-03-06 The global trade of aquatic organisms for home and public aquariums along with associated equipment and accessories has become a multi billion dollar industry Aquaculture of marine ornamental species still in its infancy is recognized as a viable alternative to wild collection as it can supplement or replace the supply of wild caught specimens and potentially help recover natural populations through restocking This book collects into a single work the most up to date information currently available on the aquaculture of marine ornamental species It includes the contributions of more than 50 leading scientists and experts on different topics relevant for the aquaculture of the most emblematic groups of organisms traded for reef aquariums From clownfish to angelfish tangs and seahorses as well as corals anemones shrimps giant clams and several other reef organisms all issues related with the husbandry breeding and trade are addressed with explanatory schemes and illustrations being used to help in understanding the most complex topics addressed Marine Ornamental Species Aquaculture is a key reference for scientists and academics in research institutes and universities public and private aquaria as well as for hobbyists Entrepreneurs will also find this book an important resource as the culture of marine ornamental species is analyzed from a business oriented perspective highlighting the risks and opportunities of commercial scale aquaculture of marine ornamentals Teacher's Guide to the Modern Biology Program James Howard Otto, Albert Towle, Elizabeth H. Crider, 1965 Chapter Resource 23 Introduction to Plants Biology Holt Rinehart & Winston, Holt, Rinehart and Winston Staff, 2004 Contributions of Zoos and Aquariums to the Advancement of Marine Science Steven T. Kessel, Charles Knapp, Tracy A. Romano, Alistair Dove, Heather Jane Koldewey, 2025-02-13 As zoological organizations evolve in the twenty first century to address the biodiversity extinction crisis and proactively demonstrate relevance in a changing public opinion landscape their conservation science portfolios continue to expand Public zoos and aquariums address these issues directly by conducting both ex and in situ research designed to advance our understanding of species while also detecting diagnosing and halting population declines in the wild In particular the distinct nature of zoological organizations uniquely positions them to make significant contributions to marine science The ability to care for and access a diverse suite of marine species provides the opportunity to understand their behavior biology physiology which can inform ex situ investigations Moreover the broad skillsets of staff facilitate extensive collaborative research opportunities These ongoing contributions to marine science have remained relatively underappreciated by others outside the community Here we intend to raise awareness about these contributions and initiate further collaborative research opportunities Building on an increasing body of literature our goal is to curate a diverse portfolio of research that represents the contributions of zoos and aquariums to the field of marine science and to highlight the novel qualities of these conservation based organizations These can broadly be divided into four main categories i Infrastructure extensive capacity to care for a wide variety of animals extensive veterinarian hospital spaces and equipment advanced water quality and microbiology labs research vessels and the generation of funds through ticket sales and contributions ii Animal care expertise in maintaining animals under professional human care including breeding diverse veterinary expertise development of species specific research techniques relevant to the study of wild populations iii Dedicated research programs personnel typically focused on wild populations ecosystems and iv Education and social science policy and advocacy education and outreach large audiences to educate engage on conservation issues and inspiring the next generation of conservation champions biologists This will serve to further bring zoos and aquariums to the forefront as potential collaborators for other marine scientists conducting both in situ and ex situ research particularly those studies that would benefit from the unique opportunities and rare and endangered species zoos and aquariums provide
