

Figure 2

A microscopic structure called a nephron is what lies at the core of the blood filtration process. The average human kidney has about a million nephrons. As blood enters the kidney through the renal artery, it is filtered through the nephrons. The nephrons pass waste on to the renal pelvis as urea, and return the filtered blood to the inferior vena cava through the renal vein.

The cortex is the region where most of the nephrons are contained. It is lighter in color and lies in the outer region of the kidney. This is where the blood filtration begins. The medulla also contains nephrons, but not as many as the cortex. The renal pyramids are covered with the microscopic collecting tubules (which come from the nephrons) and release urea into the renal pelvis. Figure 3 shows a cross-sectional view in addition to the one in Figure 2. It clearly shows the three regions of the kidney. If you want to cut your specimen like this, use your scalpel to make Incision 2, shown in Figure 2.
