

ENERGY FLOW IN ECOSYSTEMS

Energy Flow

Read the passage carefully before answer.

Producers rely on the flow of energy to sustain themselves in the food web, which provides the energy and other products. When producers are not available, this energy then passes through the food web to the animals and plants, which are also dependent on the flow of energy to sustain themselves.

Photosynthesis is the process by which autotrophic plants, algae and some bacteria use light energy to produce glucose and oxygen. This process is essential for the survival of all organisms, producing the energy that flows through the food web. The rate of photosynthesis is affected by the amount of light, the amount of carbon dioxide and the temperature of the environment.

Consumers use plants and animals for energy. They eat plants and animals to get energy. The energy that flows through the food web is used to sustain the organisms that are part of the food web.
