Monarch Butterflies: Incredible Migration

Monarch butterflies are famous for their long-distance migration. Each year, billions of monarchs travel from the northeastern United States and southern Canada to the mountains of Mexico. This journey is one of the most remarkable in the animal kingdom.

The monarchs begin their migration in the fall. They fly south, following a path that is passed down from one generation to the next. They can fly for up to 100 miles a day and survive for several weeks on the wing.

When they reach Mexico, they find a place to overwinter. They cluster together on the sides of mountains, where they can stay warm and safe from predators. The monarchs that do not migrate stay in their home range, where they live for only a few weeks.

Monarch butterflies are a symbol of hope and resilience. Their incredible journey reminds us that we can overcome our fears and achieve our dreams. We can all be like monarchs, flying towards a better future.
