The ITIL guiding principles

Guiding principle	Description
Focus on value	Everything that the organization does needs to create, directly or indirectly, a benefit to the organization. The focus of value principle encompasses every perspective, including the experience of customers and users. Do not just focus on specific activities, but also on the overall context in which they are performed. There is a risk that a great idea in the current context becomes a program, project, and people that can be used to create the desired outcome.
Start where you are	The current state should be investigated and assessed, taking into account what is already in use. Do not attempt to do everything at once. Start high, establish a vision, and then work on it. By organizing work into smaller, manageable activities that can be completed and completed in a timely manner, it is more likely to achieve a strategic focus in each effort.
Progress iteratively with feedback	Work in small, frequent, and often visible increments of work that allow you to focus and adapt. Iterate, learn, and improve. Working together on small, frequent increments results in faster progress, more frequent feedback, and increased likelihood of long-term success.
Collaborate and promote visibility	Working together across organizational boundaries, and local, global, and cross-functional, creates better outcomes.

Achieving value: costs

Costs

Achieving desired outcomes requires resources (and therefore costs) and/or other associated with costs. Service providers help their customers to address outcomes and to design or take on some of the associated costs and risks. On the other hand, service relationships can introduce new costs and risks, and in some cases, can negatively affect some of the intended outcomes after supporting others.

Value

Value is the perceived benefit, opportunity, or potential, realized through operational usage, products, services, and experiences, which should be the result of a service value chain or value stream. It is a positive, service-related or value-led to provide value to produce a useful outcome, experience, or a process is provided. Use the maximum number of value streams to maximize the opportunities. Always use customer-focused thinking to produce practical solutions that deliver results.
Realization of all types, particularly intangible, requires that the value chain is well-defined, that it is fully executed and use technology to ensure that it is a capable of human, interaction should only happen once the value chain is well-defined.
