Multiple Representations in Chemical Education John K. Gilbert, David Treagust, 2009-02-28 Chemistry seeks to provide qualitative and quantitative explanations for the observed behaviour of elements and their compounds. Doing so involves making use of three types of representation: the macro, the empirical properties of substances, the sub-micro, the nature of the entities giving rise to those properties, and the symbolic, the number of entities involved in any changes that take place. Although understanding this triplet relationship is a key aspect of chemical education, there is considerable evidence that students find great difficulty in achieving mastery of the ideas involved. In bringing together the work of leading chemistry educators who are researching the triplet relationship at the secondary and university levels, the book discusses the learning involved, the problems that students encounter, and successful approaches to teaching. Based on the reported research, the editors argue for a coherent model for understanding the triplet relationship in chemical education. Study Guide Joan I. Senyk, 1990 Whitaker's Cumulative Book List, 1984 Books in Print Supplement, 1985 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2009 Nanomaterials for Environmental Protection Boris I. Kharisov, Oxana Vasilievna Kharissova, H. V. Rasika Dias, 2014-08-27 This book is divided into four main sections, thoroughly analyzing the use of nanomaterials for water, air, and soil solutions, and emphasizing environmental risks. Providing background on nanomaterials, two decades of study, it discusses the characterization and application of unconventional disinfectants called antimicrobial nanomaterials, which fall into three categories and while seemingly harmless, have potential hazards if applied improperly. Special attention is given to the process of remediation, synthetic techniques, and properties of nanomaterials, with examples to which new and trained readers in the field can relate and understand an interdisciplinary approach aimed at scientists in physical chemistry, nanotechnology, and environmental sciences. Includes applications of non-conventional techniques in environmental protection, furthering the development of applied nanoscience and nanotechnology, suggests new industrial projects and university courses addressing nanotechnology in and for the environment, includes applications for water, air, and soil protection. Ebbing General Chemistry and Study Guide and Student Solutions Manual and Eduspace Darrell D.
