Society,1996 The field of personal indoor and mobile radio is a fast developing field The rapidity of development of compact miniaturized circuitry and adequate power units for portability are fueling this wireless applications explosion The awarding of spectrum licenses throughout the world has impact on design decisions that are reported here and will have long ranging effects on the future developments Experimental Study Towards Realizing Ant Based Resource Discovery and Mobility Aware Trust Management for Mobile Grid Systems Arjun Singh,2015-10-22 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2014 in the subject Computer Science Technical Computer Science Sir Padampat Singhania University language English abstract Grid technology is a new paradigm which has the potential to completely change the way of computing and data access Generally speaking we could consider the Grid as the new enabling technology to transparently access computing and storage resources anywhere anytime and with guaranteed Quality of Service QoS Grid computing has emerged to cater the need of computing on demand due to the advent of distributed computing with sophisticated load balancing distributed data and concurrent computing power using clustered servers The Grid enables resource sharing and dynamic allocation of computational resources thus increasing access to distributed data promoting operational flexibility and collaboration and allowing service providers to scale efficiently to meet variable demands The lack of adequate development methods for this kind of systems since the majority of existing Grid applications have been built without a systematic development process and are based on adhoc developments suggests the need for adapted development methodologies This thesis concern the resource discovery and trust management with security in large size of future grid An automatic discovery mechanism is needed to find nodes willing to participate in the grid For mobile grids a decentralized discovery mechanism is vital to cope with the fluctuating topology and large number of participants The thesis implemented an Ant based discovery mechanism in which forward and backward ants are used to establish super grid nodes The criteria for selecting the super grid nodes include distance CPU speed available bandwidth and residual battery power After establishing the supergrid nodes among the grid nodes they collect information about all the resources in a resource table It consists of grid node id resource availability distance from super grid etc If any node wants a specific resource it sends request to its nearest super grid node from which the node ids matching the request are returned The local and global trust values of each node can be estimated based on the factors Job Response time percentage of correctly received data Number of successfully finished jobs These factors can be collected based on the feedback from the user The trust values can be updated based on the predictive residence time of each grid node ie The node with least residence time with high mobility is penalized by reducing the trust value by a step value Research Magazine ,2004 Proceedings of the IEEE Engineering in Medicine and Biology Society, Region 8 International Conference ,2000 Wireless Internet & Mobile Business Harvey M.
