Architectural Research
Tomasz E. Malec, 2025-08-02 This book introduces the basic principles and methods of scientific research in architecture. Due to the specificity of the creative process and the architectural industry, the presented issues have also been adapted to the needs of architecture teachers, architects active in the design market, and others interested in the topic. The first chapter explains four crucial research skills: focus, reasoning, critical thinking, and creativity, supported by ethics. The second chapter focuses on preparation for research by formulation of the research problem, hypothesis, and correlated research questions. The third chapter is an introductory part presenting the various classifications of architectural research and explaining the roots and significance of reasoning, creativity, and ethics. The fourth chapter presents the main research methods applicable to architecture, starting with the literature review. All of them can be modified and adjusted to ever-changing requirements. In the fifth chapter, visual tools are described for clearly presenting the research-related issues. The sixth chapter is the introduction to academic writing. It includes the main rules of article preparation using elements such as abstract, keywords, introduction, materials and methods, results, and discussion, conclusions, references, and the application of citation styles. Additionally, this chapter is concerned with general requirements for critical review preparation.

Hospital Architecture
David R. Porter, 1982 This book has attempted to devise a common language for hospital planning, programming, architecture, engineering, and construction. A complete hospital project should be based upon a series of clear tasks and a straightforward schedule that is understood by the hospital consultant, architect, engineer, and contractor. An important feature of this book is the presentation of operational programming ratios. The use of these ratios as a basis for sizing hospital departments would give all of us a common method of re-viewing hospital utilization. Enormous differences in size, ranging from 600 to 1,200 gross square feet per bed of hospitals in the same community, should not exist. A baseline measurement is needed for all hospitals in order to assure quality space for the patient and to contain excessive facility cost based upon department wish lists.
