- The transfer of genes from one organism to another is called genetic engineering
- A chart that tracks which members of a family have a particular trait is called a pedigree

- A genome is all the DNA in one cell of an organism

- In hybridization, breeders cross two genetically different individuals
- A clone is an organism that is genetically identical to the organism from which it was produced
- Inserting working copies of a gene directly into the cells of a person with a genetic disorder is referred to as gene therapy
- Three or more forms of a gene that code for a single trait are called multiple alleles
- Sex-linked recessive traits are more common in males
- Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disorder in which the body produces abnormally thick mucus
- The process of selecting few organisms with desired traits to serve as parents of the next generation is called selective breeding

- Smile dimples are controlled by a dominant allele on a single gene. Whitney has smile dimples but her husband Alberto and son Pedro do not. What is the chance that Whitney and Alberto's next child will have smile dimples? Draw a Punnett square to show how you arrived at your answer.
  - The chance is 50%. Smile dimples are a dominant trait, so Alberto and Pedro both have the dd genotype. Therefore, Whitney must be Dd, and 50% of the children of a Dd x dd cross should have smile dimples.
