INSTRUCTIONS AND INFORMATION*Read the following instructions carefully before answering the questions.

1. This is a formal SBA task and must be done under supervised conditions in the classroom.
2. Each learner completes this task on his/her own (under test conditions).
3. Present the answers according to the instructions of each question.
4. Draw all diagrams in pencil and labels in blue ink.
5. The diagrams in the question paper may NOT be drawn to scale.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The biosphere is the thin layer of land, air and water around the earth's surface that supports life. The abiotic, or non-living, portion of each ecosystem in the biosphere includes the flow of energy, nutrients, water, and gases and the concentrations of organic and inorganic substances in the environment. The biotic, or living, portion includes organisms based on their methods of acquiring energy: the primary producers, largely green plants; the consumers, which include all the animals; and the decomposers, which include the microorganisms that break down the remains of plants and animals into simpler components for recycling in the biosphere.

Ecological pyramids are a graphical representation in the shape of a pyramid to show the feeding relationship of groups of organisms, and the flow of energy or biomass through the different trophic levels in a given ecosystem.

QUESTION 1: Abiotic factors

STE*M: STEM Education for All Marie-Louise Botha, Hanne Deprez, Oliver Holz, Robin Schaeffer, 2025 STEM education which encompasses Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics is of paramount importance in the 21st century. Currently there is a global call for a technologically skilled workforce for the 21st century workplace related to scarce skill subjects such as Mathematics, Science, ICT and Arts. Furthermore, these skills and jobs are not promoted effectively in wider communities. In this era of rapid technological advancements and complex global challenges, including a shortage of qualified STEM educators and under-resourced schools, STEM education is essential. It equips individuals with critical skills for success through collaborative and interdisciplinary approaches. The asterisk in STEM reflects its evolving nature, promoting interdisciplinary collaboration to develop critical skills needed in a rapidly changing technology-driven world. The scope of the book is multi-faceted and explores a range of practices and research contexts such as student STE M stimulated experiences, transdisciplinarity, diversity, and inclusion in STE M education and science teaching in primary and secondary schools. The contributions show different perspectives from Belgium, Botswana, Germany, Namibia, South Africa, and the United States of America. Which Degree in Britain, 1999. This book considers the scope and dynamics of Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) and learning in schools in Africa. It explores the conditions and processes that support such learning and examines how ESD in schooling can improve the quality and relevance of education. The quality of education has been defined internationally as a key concern for educational institutions around the world, including schools in Africa. The models of quality are often limited to performance-based approaches and/or inclusive approaches. The contributions in this book show that there is more to a discussion on educational quality in Africa than performance success and/or inclusion. The chapters explain how ESD brings a new relevance to education in Africa and at the same time sounds the beginning of a new concept of quality education. The volume presents a collection of experiences in creating and supporting quality learning processes through a variety of ESD practices. Opening Scientific Literacy for All Kamil A.
