Unfolding the Cards Ian Damerell, 2015-03-03 These essays attempt to confront the effect of years of postmodernity and its promotion of individuality at the cost of solidarity and communal spirit In the wake of this it suggests possible frameworks for an art study that restores a certain focus on communal spirit It proposes too that art study's fragile position in contemporary society is a consequence of over commercialisation and its resultant surface values Consumerist and corporate ideology encourage the consumer individual's self realisation seemingly divorced from communal interests Within this isolation lies the potential breakdown of ethics Therefore I dream of a kinder society i.e. one where we are engaged in realising the community as its citizens This is not blind obedience but in a spirit of contributing to a whole society More specifically it means allowing and to a degree maintaining art study as a sphere of possibilities for budding citizen artists It is envisaging art study as a discursive arena and creating an academic space that allows for art's main contribution the dislodging of the so called proper i.e. entrenched doctrine I believe that art study can contribute to the improving of society in the main because art enacts a different sharing of the sensible are tools critical to generating innovations the author explains how licenses can in certain situations be employed to help users overcome some of the barriers to user innovation User Innovation Barriers to Democratization and IP Licensing is a practical guidebook as well as a startlingly original work of scholarship that will be essential reading for years to come
