Smith,Moirra Munro,2013-10-31 House prices and mortgage debt have moved to centre stage in the management of national economies regional development and neighbourhood change Describing analysing and understanding how housing markets work within and across these scales of economy and society has never been more urgent But much more is known about the macro scales than the microstructures and about the economic rather than social drivers of housing market dynamics This book redresses the balance It shows that housing markets are social cultural and psychological as well as economic affairs This multidisciplinary approach is helpful in understanding the economic staples of supply demand price and information It also casts new light on the emotional and political economy of markets      Centennial Articles Robert D. Hatcher,William A.

Years assesses the state of scientific efforts to reconstruct surface temperature records for Earth during approximately the last 2 000 years and the implications of these efforts for our understanding of global climate change Because widespread reliable temperature records are available only for the last 150 years scientists estimate temperatures in the more distant past by analyzing proxy evidence which includes tree rings corals ocean and lake sediments cave deposits ice cores boreholes and glaciers Starting in the late 1990s scientists began using sophisticated methods to combine proxy evidence from many different locations in an effort to estimate surface temperature changes during the last few hundred to few thousand years
