

John Haymes Newton Boy of Steel

I feel that with a 50-year-old dynasty behind me, I have a responsibility when I put on this costume and play this character," explains actor John Haymes Newton, better known as TV's Superboy. "Superman was one of the helpful diversions during the Depression and World War II, and I think that everyone has had their own helpful diversions. There was Elvis in the '50s, and the Beatles during the '60s. Entertainment has always flourished during hard times, and Superman has been one of the things that have helped to carry our country. It's an American icon we're extremely proud of. That's why I would never do anything to damage the character."

Newton's flight as the Kryptonian continues. Superboy has been renewed for the remainder of the season. "Generally, I'm pleased with the first 13 shows," he says. "We're still learning some of the special effects, and so far, they haven't been the best. Most of the flying matters and the blue screen shots are a little frustrating because we know we can do them better. We're getting more money for the next 13 and stronger writers. It's getting there, but like anything, it's a learning process, and the only way to learn is to experience. The ratings keep going up and up. Superboy's as close to being a hit show as it can be."

Even before Superboy began production, the cast and crew were faced with two distinct concerns: continuity within the Superman universe, and Newton's approach to the dual roles of Superboy and Clark Kent.

"As you know," says Newton, "Superman has been written for 51 years and there were continuity problems. Many people have come in and straightened it out and said, 'This happened, but that didn't.' We've also done a little bit of that on the show. The Superboy comics had Clark being 13 or 14, and we're doing Superboy at 19 and attending Schuster College with Lana Lang and T.J. White. Essentially, we're setting the format for how Superman got to be the way he was. This is before the Fortress of Solitude, so I don't really understand everything, but my powers are surfacing as I need them. It's just like an infant who reacts when he touches something that's hot. If one of my super powers is needed, it surfaces and I learn how to use it to the best of my abilities. I'm also learning how to set up the differences between Clark and Superboy. I'm going away from the bumbling and nerdy side of Clark. He's more of a real guy with real feelings, and he hasn't

The adventures of Superboy when he was an actor.
