

Letters of Marque and Reprisal (Part 1): Introduction and Historical Context

February 26, 2025

Article I, Section 8, Clause 11 of the Constitution authorizes Congress to “grant letters of Marque and Reprisal[.]” which are instruments that permit private citizens to seize enemy vessels and their cargos and crew. This Sidebar is part of a two-part series that discusses Congress’s power over these instruments. This installment provides an overview of letters of marque and reprisal and places them in historical context. Part 2 examines the instruments’ role in the drafting of the Constitution, discusses their rise and decline in U.S. practice, and outlines proposals to revive use of the instruments in modern contexts.

Overview of Letters of Marque and Reprisal

Letters of marque and reprisal were once common tools for countries with small naval forces to augment their militaries by drawing upon the strength of their private merchant vessels. As a young country, the United States used the instruments with success in several early conflicts, including the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. Over the course of the 19th century, however, commissioning private parties to use armed force fell out of favor in domestic and international practice, and Congress has not authorized a President to issue the instruments since the Civil War.

During the era when the United States used letters of marque and reprisal, Congress historically authorized the President to issue the instruments, subject to statutorily defined requirements and conditions, rather than issue instruments directly from the legislative branch. Individual states, by contrast, are prohibited from issuing the instruments under Article I, Section 10 of the Constitution.

The Framers of the Constitution placed the Marque and Reprisal Clause between provisions that authorize Congress to declare war and to “make Rules concerning Captures on Land and Water.” These three authorities are interrelated and can function together. For instance, in conjunction with declaring war, Congress might authorize letters of marque and reprisal allowing private ship-owners to assist the war effort by targeting enemy vessels, as it did in the War of 1812. Holders of those letters could then capture enemy vessels and bring them into port to be condemned and sold as prizes of war. Using its authority to “[make Rules concerning Captures\[.\]](#)” Congress could define the legal framework governing how the condemnation proceedings would operate and how the proceeds of the sale would be distributed.
