PRACTICE KITS PROVIDE A VALUABLE INSIGHT ON HOW TO SCORE TOP MARKS Goats and tsars Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee,2010-03-11 This report from the Public Administration Select Committee PASC concludes that the practice of appointing ministers from outside Parliament via the House of Lords should be exceptional and subject to more checks and balances Introducing a wider range of experience into ministerial teams can sometimes make government more effective but government could also achieve this by making greater use of the range of talent on their own backbenches The Committee argues for more scrutiny of outside appointments when they are made The Prime Minister would be required to explain to the House of Commons why an appointment had been made under what terms and what was expected of the minister during their time in government The prospective appointee could be required to attend a pre appointment select committee hearing PASC identifies a strong argument of principle that ministers in an unelected House of Lords should be accountable to all Members of the House of Commons People who have been appointed to the Lords to be ministers should not automatically receive a title and place in the legislature for life It may be preferable to have a limited number of ministers who are members of neither House but accountable to both The Committee also examined the role of so called tsars There should be much more transparency about such appointments with greater clarity about their roles and responsibilities and a public statement of what they have achieved in their posts The Brickbuilder ,1902 Confronting Exclusion African Minds,2013 South Africa has made important political strides over the past two decades It has created a framework of democratic legislative executive and judicial institutions that mark a clear break from the apartheid past In theory they are inclusive and offer every citizen equal access to constitutionally protected rights Their capacity to deliver however is coming under increasing pressure and as this happens citizen confidence in their efficacy is waning Much of the pressure which ultimately may affect their legitimacy in the eyes of ordinary citizens stems from the desperation and sense of economic exclusion experienced by those who find themselves at the wrong end of South Africa s grossly unequal society If this decline in trust persists the cohesive effects of the country s democratic institutions will diminish and instability will become an increasingly common feature of political contestation An immediate but only partial remedy to the current state of affairs would be to prioritise transparency accountability and leadership integrity within the system to restore trust in the bona fides of key institutions The longer term challenge will be to counter a growing sense of economic exclusion where violent police action rather than democratic process is increasingly employed to stave off the manifestations of material anxiety experienced by struggling citizens This edition of the Transformation Audit titled Confronting Exclusion focuses on instances of such exclusion but as in previous years also prioritises the search for inclusive economic policy and future strategies to address them By looking at each of the four chapter areas it seeks to find answers to the challenge of a society in which the promise of true freedom and equal rights will remain only that until people feel equipped to be in charge of their own destiny and that of their children Parliamentary Papers Great Britain.
