Or would you get them on the court and have them play? In basketball, the answer is easy: BAD. You do both. So why teach politics only as a spectator sport? Senator Bob Graham believes that students should expand on their classroom learning about the political system; he spurs them to hit the court and actually play the game. If students work on an issue they care about, politics will become a meaningful and positive experience. This short how-to guide takes students out of theoretical discussions of policy and into a world where they can affect change. Graham BAD's goal is to have students identify a problem and then walk them through each step, from researching the issue to getting others involved, to engaging the media. Each chapter starts with a real case showing citizens tackling a step in the process and ends with a summary checklist and a series of questions that help students put Graham BAD's game plan in action. By offering students concrete guidance, an array of resources, and advice for troubleshooting and overcoming barriers, this compact user BAD s guide gets students way beyond textbook learning Thirty five years ago as a member of the Florida Legislature Bob Graham took on the challenge of civic education for eighteen weeks at a Miami area high school His time as both a governor and a senator has only strengthened his resolve to pique students BAD curiosity about politics and teach them to get what they want from government The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2009
