

Insulation Factor Fasteners

- Most Insulation Factor Fasteners feature a built-in thermal break
- They are made of non-conductive materials such as PVC
- They are made of high quality materials

Insulation Factor Fasteners are designed to provide a thermal break between the interior and exterior surfaces of a building. They are made of non-conductive materials such as PVC and are designed to fit snugly around the fastener. This helps to prevent heat loss through the fastener and provides an additional layer of insulation. Insulation Factor Fasteners are available in a variety of sizes and colors to match your building's exterior. They are easy to install and provide a long-lasting solution for insulating your building.
