

Recruiting Fee Structures

1

Percentage of First-Year Salary

The percentage of first-year salary model is commonly adopted by recruitment agencies. In this structure, the recruiter's fee is a predetermined percentage of the candidate's first-year salary. For instance, a typical rate might range from 15% to 30%. Employers favor this model when they require a recruiter to fill roles that vary significantly in salary range, as it aligns the recruiter's incentives with the level of the role.

2

Flat Fee Arrangements

Flat fee arrangements involve a set rate charged by the recruiter, regardless of the position's salary. This flat rate simplifies budgeting for the employer as it's a predetermined expense. Companies may prefer this model for positions with a standardized salary range since it can be more cost-effective than a variable percentage model.

Retainer Model

The retainer model functions on an upfront fee paid to the recruitment agency, often followed by additional payments through the recruitment process. This model is typically employed for executive search or specialized positions, where the recruiter invests a significant amount of upfront time and resources to identify the right candidate.

4

Contingency Payments

Under the contingency payments method, recruiters are paid a fee only upon the successful placement of a candidate. This contingency fee is often a percentage of the first-year salary and is favored by employer's who do not want to incur costs until a hire is made, thereby reducing financial risk in the initial stages of recruiting.
