Grist

Ib Geography Paper 3 May 2012:

Perilous Desert Frederic Wehrey, Anouar Boukhars, 2013-04-02 The geopolitical significance of the Sahara is becoming painfully clear Islamist militant groups and transnational criminal networks are operating in the region's most fragile states exploiting widespread corruption weak government capacity crushing poverty and entrenched social and ethnic tensions The unrest spills over borders and aggravates protracted regional crises This insecurity raises urgent concerns for the broader Sahara and the West Perilous Desert details the sources of instability and what can be done to minimize the threat of simmering conflicts Leading experts through comprehensive accounts of the changing landscape demonstrate how foreign assistance that relies exclusively on counterterrorism will only exacerbate the problems Solutions require understanding and combatting the roots of the Sahara's many challenges

Natural Resource Extraction and Indigenous Livelihoods

Emma Gilberthorpe, Gavin Hilson, 2016-04-22 This book provides an extended analysis of how resource extraction projects stimulate social cultural and economic change in indigenous communities Through a range of case studies including open cast mining artisanal mining logging deforestation oil extraction and industrial fishing the contributors explore the challenges highlighted in global debates on sustainability Corporate Social Responsibility CSR and climate change The case studies are used to assess whether and how development processes might compete and conflict with the market objectives of multinational corporations and the organizational and moral principles of indigenous communities Emphasizing the perspectives of directly affected parties the authors identify common patterns in the way in which extraction projects are conceptualized implemented and perceived The book provides a deeper understanding of the dynamics of the human environments where resource extraction takes place and its consequent impacts on local livelihoods Its in depth case studies underscore the need for increased social accountability in the planning and development of natural resource extraction projects

Financialisation and Development in Asia

Toby Carroll, Darryl Jarvis, 2018-11-07 Multilateral development agencies have increasingly focused on underdeveloped Asian countries as potential new sites for financial capital Often referred to as emerging markets these economies are seen as ripe for private sector investment and at the same time in need of foreign capital to support rapid industrialisation modernisation and poverty reduction This confluence of interests suggests a means for quickly closing the development gap primarily through mobilising regulatory institutional and governance reforms designed to reduce barriers to foreign capital institutional inefficiencies and risks to investment capital repatriation and market operation Therefore development agencies now encourage the construction of enabling environments to support market driven development through processes variously identified as financialisation centring on the role of the market and private capital While the state itself has historically occupied a central place in economic development new financialised modes of development are increasingly marginalising the state its influence in the economy and thus its ability to manage developmental outcomes In this volume a collection of leading authors critically assess these developments highlighting the emergence of financialised modes of development and their contested and often problematic nature Drawing upon a series of case studies the contributors explore not just the increasing use of financialised development initiatives but assess critically their implications in terms of the emergent risks costs and inequalities that often accompany them This book was originally published as a special issue of the Asian Studies Review

The State of African Cities, 2014 United Nations Publications, 2015-09-10 The African continent is currently in the midst of simultaneously unfolding and highly significant demographic economic technological environmental urban and socio political transitions Africa's economic performance is promising with booming cities supporting growing middle classes and creating sizable consumer markets Despite significant overall growth the continent continues to suffer under very rapid urban growth accompanied by massive urban poverty and many other social problems These seem to indicate that the development trajectories followed by African nations since post independence may not be able to deliver on the aspirations of broad based human development and prosperity for all This report therefore argues for a bold re imagining of prevailing models in order to steer the ongoing transitions towards greater sustainability based on a thorough review of all available options That is especially the case since the already daunting urban challenges in Africa are now being exacerbated by the new vulnerabilities and threats associated with climate and environmental change
