

String Class, Documentation

The screenshot shows the Java documentation page for the `String` class. The page is viewed in a browser with the URL `https://docs.oracle.com/javase/8/docs/api/java/lang/String.html`. The navigation bar includes links for Overview, Package, Class, Use Tree, Deprecated, Index, and Help. Below the navigation bar, there are links for Previous Class, Next Class, Frames, No Frames, and All Classes. The main content area shows the class name `String` and its inheritance hierarchy: `java.lang.Object` and `java.lang.String`. It also lists all implemented interfaces: `Serializable`, `CharSequence`, and `Comparable<String>`. The class signature is `public final class String`, which extends `Object` and implements `Serializable`, `Comparable<String>`, and `CharSequence`. A paragraph explains that the `String` class represents character strings and that all string literals in Java programs are implemented as instances of this class. Another paragraph states that `String` objects are constant and their values cannot be changed after they are created, while `StringBuffer` supports mutable strings. An example shows the declaration `String str = "abc";` and notes that it is equivalent to `char data[] = {'a', 'b', 'c'};` followed by `String str = new String(data);`.

`public final class String`

implements `Serializable`, `Comparable<String>`, `CharSequence`

The `String` class represents character strings. All string literals in Java programs, such as `"abc"`, are implemented as instances of this class.

`String` are constant; their values cannot be changed after they are created. `StringBuffer` support mutable strings. Because `String` objects are immutable they can be shared. For example:

```
String str = "abc";

is equivalent to:

```
char data[] = {'a', 'b', 'c'};
String str = new String(data);
```
