Op. 4* Samuel Butler, 1882 A Guide to the Study of Fishes David Starr Jordan, 1905 A Textbook of Systematic Botany Deane Bret Swingle, 1928 Unifying Biology Vassiliki Betty Smocovitis, 1996-12 Unifying Biology offers a historical reconstruction of one of the most important yet elusive episodes in the history of modern science the evolutionary synthesis of the 1930s and 1940s For more than seventy years after Darwin proposed his theory of evolution it was hotly debated by biological scientists It was not until the 1930s that opposing theories were finally refuted and a unified Darwinian evolutionary theory came to be widely accepted by biologists Using methods gleaned from a variety of disciplines Vassiliki Betty Smocovitis argues that the evolutionary synthesis was part of the larger process of unifying the biological sciences At the same time that scientists were working toward a synthesis between Darwinian selection theory and modern genetics they were according to the author also working together to establish an autonomous community of evolutionists Smocovitis suggests that the drive to unify the sciences of evolution and biology was part of a global philosophical movement toward unifying knowledge In developing her argument she pays close attention to the problems inherent in writing the history of evolutionary science by offering historiographical reflections on the practice of history and the practice of science Drawing from some of the most exciting recent approaches in science studies and cultural studies she argues that science is a culture complete with language rituals texts and practices Unifying Biology offers not only its own new synthesis of the history of modern evolution but also a new way of doing history

Artefacts Archives and Documentation in the Relational Museum provides the first interdisciplinary study of the digital documentation of artefacts and archives in contemporary museums while also exploring the implications of polyphonic relational thinking on collections documentation Drawing on case studies from Australia the United Kingdom and the United States the book provides a critical examination of the history of collections management and documentation since the introduction of computers to museums in the 1960s demonstrating how technology has contributed to the disconnection of distributed collections knowledge Jones also highlights how separate documentation systems have developed managed by distinct increasingly professionalised staff impacting our ability to understand and use what we find in museums and their ever expanding online collections Exploring this legacy allows us to rethink current practice focusing less on individual objects and more on the rich stories and interconnected resources that lie at the heart of the contemporary plural participatory relational museum Artefacts Archives and Documentation in the Relational Museum is essential reading for those who wish to better understand the institutional silos found in museums and the changes required to make museum knowledge more accessible The book is a particularly important addition to the fields of museum studies archival science information management and the history of cultural heritage technologies
