

WORKSHEET: STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION OF THE PLASMA MEMBRANE

The plasma membrane is a vital component of all cells. It separates the cell contents from the extracellular environment and controls the movement of substances into and out of the intracellular space.

Task 1

Define the term semipermeable.

Task 2

Use the following terms to label the diagram of the plasma membrane.

- Extracellular space
- Intracellular space
- Cytoskeleton
- Phospholipid molecule
- Phospholipid bilayer
- Cholesterol
- Peripheral protein
- Transmembrane glycoprotein
- Glycolipid
- Hydrophobic region

Disorders Thomas E. Andreoli, Darrell D. Fanestil, Joseph F. Hoffman, Stanley G. Schultz, 2013-11-11 The second edition of Physiology of Membrane Disorders represents an extensive revision and a considerable expansion of the first edition Yet the purpose of the second edition is identical to that of its predecessor namely to provide a rational analysis of membrane transport processes in individual membranes cells tissues and organs which in turn serves as a frame of reference for rationalizing disorders in which derangements of membrane transport processes play a cardinal role in the clinical expression of disease As in the first edition this book is divided into a number of individual but closely related sections Part V represents a new section where the problem of transport across epithelia is treated in some detail Finally Part VI which analyzes clinical derangements has been enlarged appreciably THE EDITORS xi Preface to the First Edition The purpose of this book is to provide the reader with a rational frame of reference for assessing the pathophysiology of those disorders in which derangements of membrane transport processes are a major factor responsible for the clinical manifestations of disease In the present context we use the term membrane transport to refer to those molecular processes whose cardinal function broadly speaking is processes in a catholic sense the vectorial transfer of molecules either individually or as ensembles across biological interfaces the latter including those interfaces which separate different intracellular compartments the cellular and extracellular compartments and secreted fluids such as glomerular filtrate and extracellular fluids

December 2003 Biological Membranes Kenneth M. Merz, Benoit Roux, 2012-12-06 The interface between a living cell and the surrounding world plays a critical role in numerous complex biological processes Sperm egg fusion virus cell fusion exocytosis endocytosis and ion permeation are a few examples of processes involving membranes In recent years powerful tools such as X ray crystallography electron microscopy nuclear magnetic resonance and infra red and Raman spectroscopy have been developed to characterize the structure and dynamics of biomembranes Despite this progress many of the factors responsible for the function of biomembranes are still not well understood The membrane is a very complicated supramolecular liquid crystalline structure that is largely composed of lipids forming a bilayer to which proteins and other biomolecules are anchored Often the lipid bilayer environment is pictured as a hydrophobic structureless slab providing a thermodynamic driving force to partition the amino acids of a membrane protein according to their solubility However much of the molecular complexity of the phospholipid bilayer environment is ignored in such a simplified view It is likely that the atomic details of the polar head group region and the transition from the bulk water to the hydrophobic core of the membrane are important An understanding of the factors responsible for the function of biomembranes thus requires a better characterization at the molecular level of how proteins interact with lipid molecules of how lipids affect protein structure and of how lipid molecules might regulate protein function
