- Question 1: Learning Objectives:
 - Question: How do you distinguish between a function and a relation?
 - Answer: A function is a special type of relation where each input has only one output.
 - Question: How do you determine if a relation is a function?
 - Answer: You can use the vertical line test. If a vertical line intersects the graph at more than one point, it is not a function.
 - Question: What is the domain and range of a function?
 - Answer: The domain is the set of all possible input values, and the range is the set of all possible output values.

Question 1

Answer out of 1000 points

Which of the following is a function? Select all that apply.

- A circle with center (0,0) and radius 5.
- A parabola opening upwards with vertex at (0,0).
- A line with a positive slope.
- A curve that fails the vertical line test.

- Answer: A, B, C
- Reason: A circle, a parabola, and a line are all functions because they pass the vertical line test. A curve that fails the vertical line test is not a function.

Question 2

Answer out of 1000 points

Which of the following is a function? Select all that apply.
